2011-2012 Draft Instructional Calendars

Los Angeles Unified School District is proposing a District-Wide Early Start Instructional Calendar for all single track elementary, middle and senior high schools. The proposed District-Wide Early Start Calendar would allow the school year to start on August 15, 2011, and end on June 1, 2012 for students.

The Early Start Instructional Calendar offers significant instructional benefits which include more instructional days before the spring exams for our students. Additionally, high school students would finish their first semester final exams before the winter break. The Early Start Instructional Calendar ends the school year earlier in June allowing families to enroll their children in summer camps and various community agency programs. High school students would benefit from the Early Start Instructional Calendar by having the opportunity to enroll in summer college courses.

The draft 2011-2012 instructional calendars are posted on the LAUSD web site. Please follow the steps below to view the drafts.
